30 Whittier Road,
Medford, Massachusetts.
March 24, 1932.

Hon. John Burke
Mayor of Medford, Massachusetts.
Dear Sir:

I submit herewith a statement about myself, my qualifications and experience in building construction work, which would indicate my fitness for the position of Building Commissioner of the City of Medford.

I was born in County Cork, Ireland. When I was about ten years of age, I came to Lowell, Massachusetts. I attended the public schools, and lived there for twenty-seven years. I worked in a wholesale, retail hardware and paint store. About seventeen years ago, I secured a job as a repair man in the Bartlett Street, car shops of the Boston Elevated Railway Company. I was employed there for five years. I came to Medford twelve years ago, about which time, I decided to go into the building business.

I have built and supervised the erection of about forty houses in this city, in addition to other building and repair work in Greater Boston. The houses erected by me were single and two-family dwellings. They represent in Medford about $400,000 worth of building.

I own my own home, located at 30 Whittier Road, Lawrence Estates. I am married and have two children.

Respectfully Yours,
(signed) John J. Dwyer.

Company E Scribe Disappointed in Matter of Diary

In quest of scandal for the benefit of the scandal loving public, we discovered that the Diary which Sergt. DeFina is keeping belongs to the company and is not personal. The Wet Blanket. Why we could even have done a little blackmail. And if we did, we know a certain Sergeant who would be "Drugged-Out." We have at least discovered that Claude Elliot, corporal and company clerk, has a new pair of Mellon slacks, and it is hinted that all the Non-Comm. officers will soon be arrayed in the same, so that when camp comes around they may give the public a treat when off duty. Boy won't Reardon be a hit. And that man Fleming with the movable chest, will be a knockout.

The battle is over. With guns still smoking from the heat of battle, and flag still flying, Corp. M. Carem went down in defeat.

This was the battle of the Bridge tournament which was a good thing while it lasted. But Mert will be back promptly with another idea with which to interest Tournament, and hence the world is poorer for it, because it would no doubt have developed another Lenz, Jacoby or who have you.

Sergts Morley and Reardon and Fleming have perfect records for attendance at Non-Comm. Officers schools.

Legion Drum And Bugle Corps Rated Among Best

Medford Post 45, American Legion, Drum and Bugle Corps, held its regular meeting last night in Spanish War hall. The attendance was a tribute to the interest and enthusiasm of its members.

During the past winter months these men have been drilling and rehearsing faithfully in anticipation of the coming season, and will go on the street in their first parade, April 19th better than ever before.

Last year this Corps was rated by Legion officials as one of the best in the State, and this year should finish among the first for musical and military ability.

Members of Post 45 are invited to join this organization, and Comrade John Buchanan, who is the commander of the corps, promises all instruction on the bugle or drum. As soon as any member qualifies for full membership in the corps, he will be given a uniform and be allowed to parade. Comrade Buchanan wishes to call attention to the fact that the Drum and Bugle Corps, together with the Drill Team, are the real publicity agents of the post, and that it behooves members of Post 45 who have the real interest of the Legion at heart, to join and help keep Medford Legion one of the leading posts in the State, a position which is now rightfully occupies.

Medford Trust Company Clock Is Going Again

The Medford Trust company clock, which had stopped at 12 o'clock following the close of the bank last October, is running again. Although it is said to have been started three days ago, but few people noticed it, due to the fact that most everybody who at one time depended upon it for the hour of the day, had gotten out of the habit of looking at it. Most everyone thought that "it was never to run again." One chap today looked up, having a idea that, it began April 1st, it might be going, sure enough the clock played an April Fool joke and gave him the right time.

STRAND THEATRE

Edward G. Robinson comes to the Strand Theatre, Malden, for seven days starting Saturday in his latest characterization, that of the heroic Wong Low Get in "The Hatchet Man." gorgeously staged and photographed, the thrilling scenes of the melodramatic romance are laid in China and in Chinatown of San Francisco. As the Honorable Mr. Wong he is commanded by his long to execute an enemy, Sun Yet Sen, who had been a boyhood friend. Sun willa Wong all his property and secures his promise to marry his daughter, Toya San, then but six. The story recounts the exciting adventures of Mr. Wong as protector and later as husband of Toya San. Robinson's characterization of "The Hatchet Man" will go down as one of the outstanding histrionic feats of the screen. His transitions from Americanized Chinese to Chinese long killer are little short of amazing. He brings to his role the deep understanding and intelligence that have established him as the leading delineator of character on the screen. Loretta Young, as Toya San, lends zest to the production, and her make-up as a Chinese girl is beautiful and marvelous enough to earn her the title of "Girl Lon Chaney."

With this melodrama the Strand presents the comedy sensation of the season. The two pictures will make one of the best programs the Strand has offered in some time. Imagine Buster Keaton, the frozen-faced comedian, Jimmy "Snoodle" Durante, and Polly Moran in one picture. These three ace-comedians are together in "The Passionate Plumber." This production shows what a plumber does not know about love. The plot concerns the hilarious adventures of Keaton as a French plumber's assistant who gets into all sorts of difficulties when he attempts to repair a lady's bathtub. He is signed to a contract by the lady of the house as a "volunteer lover" and many embarrassing mixups occur before things are straightened out to everyone's satisfaction. Jimmy "Snoodle" Durante does his best to get Buster out of his romantic difficulties but usually only succeeds in making matters worse. He also finds times to make love to Polly Moran. Imagine Polly Moran in a romantic lover characterization. What could be funnier?

St. John's Players Present Successful Play Before Many

"The Charming Pretender" by Charles George was presented by the St. John's Players at the church before a large audience. The play, directed by William McCoy, was produced in a finished manner and held the interest of the audience throughout the three acts.

Dorothy Murdock who took the part of Sue Alexander, the charming pretender, was the simple sweet country cousin who visited her wealthy relatives in the city, and by her sincere manner and high ideals won the admiration of them all. She succeeded in reuniting a brother and sister who had been estranged for many years.

Grace Brattin in the role of the waif who never for a moment forgot the fact that she was a "Drexel" played the part in her usual clever manner and appeared to advantage in several attractive gowns.

The part of the father Buchanan Drexel was well acted by Clifton Cavanaugh and Wellington Brewster as the young son Steve Drexel furnished much of the humor of the play.

Everett Smith made a very correct appearing butler and was an important factor in the plot of the play with Stanford Kennedy who took the part of an English butler to perfection.

Winslow R. MacElhiney appeared as Andrew Carmichael the clever detective who solved the mystery of the stolen jewels and won the heart of the "Charming Pretender".

A bright spot in the last act was the entrance of Gladys Ennis as Gladys Joy the beautiful young lady who had won the title of "Miss Vermont". Her striking attire and breezy manner caused much laughter and added another success to the score of a well known St. John Player.

Between acts one and two a real treat was given the audience in a group of solos by Charles Griffin whose splendid baritone voice delighted all.

The properties were in charge of Mrs. James A. Bliss and candy was sold between the acts by boys under the direction of Edward Curtin.

VIOLET'S APRIL FOOL JOKE
March looked around most carefully. Some violets to find. But none he saw, and sadly said, "I must be getting blind."

"It's surely time for them to come; I wonder where they are. I have not found a single one. Though near I've searched and far."

"I've looked through woods, I've looked in fields. I've searched in shady nooks; I know I've covered every inch Of bank along the brooks."

"I'm really just discouraged now—I haven't long to stay—Tomorrow April comes, and then I must be on my way."

"I'm much afraid the violets all Were killed by winter's snow; I'm sure if any were around I'd have found them long ago."

That night, at midnight, as March stood Beside a shining pool. A laughing violet raised her head And called: "Oh, April Fool!" —Elizabeth Carter Woodman

H. G. Hambrecht Tells of His Travels In S. A.

H. G. Hambrecht of 36 St. Francis street, Medford, was the speaker at a meeting of the North Medford club on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Hambrecht showed 1800 feet of film taken by himself in a recent trip through the Amazon country of South America. He returned in March from a three months' trip which took him through Brazil, Bolivia, Chile and Peru, travelling a distance of over 15,000 miles. To accomplish this Mr. Hambrecht travelled by boat, auto and airplane, taking his picture of jungle territory from the air.

The club was crowded and all present were much interested in what Mr. Hambrecht had to tell of his experiences.

STAND BY THEIR GUNS

At the adjourned town meeting held Wednesday night in Robbins Memorial Town Hall the business of the meeting was completed and the remaining articles in the annual warrant were cleaned up.

This in itself was worth while accomplishment, as something like 32 articles were acted upon and a moving picture show run off all within two hours and a few minutes that the meeting was in session.

It can be said that the very capable manner in which the Moderator conducted the meeting was responsible for the citizens in attendance being allowed to take in the whole performance and still reach their homes at a reasonable hour.

The Town Meeting Members deserve the praise of the community for sticking to their guns and not allowing themselves to be persuaded by the pleading eloquence of the citizens personally interested in two of the thirteen streets listed in articles in the warrant to be reconstructed. The Finance committee reported adversely on the laying out of any of the streets named and the Town Meeting members supported the committee report.

Every good citizen of Arlington would be pleased if every street in the town was a finished street. It is well known that many of the accepted streets are in a deplorable condition at present. Margaret street and Melrose street no doubt are in need of attention, but there are the other streets that are in no better condition. If the Town Meeting members voted in favor of rebuilding the two streets in question, they would also be obliged to vote favorably on the others.

The Finance committee has investigated the conditions of the streets throughout the town, the committee has also investigated the financial condition of the town, and it knows that Arlington cannot afford to build streets this year, because the money that it would cost is not available.

Arlington taxpayers have demanded that property valuations be lowered and that the tax rate be decreased, to accomplish such there was only one alternative that was for the town to stop spending money.

Expenses are being curtailed in every business and in every household. The business affairs of a town must be conducted in the same way during these unusual times. It is no time for extravagance. The town that takes care of the emergencies that arise during the year is doing all that should be expected under the existing conditions.

Let's be patient a while longer—good times are ahead of us, we won't dare to say how far, but we will catch up, we always have.

CHIEF TIERNEY

We, here in Arlington know "Dan" Tierney, we know him not only as a Town Official but we know him as a neighbor, we know him as a mixer among men, we know him as a strict disciplinarian, yet we know him as the best friend the members of the Arlington Fire Department have. We are happy to publish in our news column what expert authorities think of him.

Arlington is to be congratulated on having "Dan" Tierney as the Chief Engineer of its Fire Department.

EDITORIAL POINTS

Poverty is good for those who can afford it.

It is easy to have things coming your way if you are going theirs.

Women once indulged in beauty sleep, but that was before the day of reconstruction parlors.

Harry Bowler, professional at the Winchester Country Club golf course for many years, swings into a new job on April Fool's day as manager of the whole shooting match at the Country Club. No fooling, if he isn't the right man for the job, they don't make 'em. Congratulations to the new manager—and to the club members.

"Youth must be served", that old saw must be dumped into the discards after the records are tabulated of the Knights of Columbus bowling scores of the season just closed. The average age of the winning team of the Arlington Council bowling league is 58, there's one for the book.

Francis O. P. Carlson of Winchester, former assistant secretary to Governors Alvan T. Fuller and Frank G. Allen and now attached to the State Department of Corporations and Taxation, was notified by the United States War Department that he is to be awarded a Purple Heart Medal for meritorious service and a wound received in the World War. The manager will also try and arrange a game with Woburn before the season starts either at Woburn or Winchester but with the condition of the field in Woburn it will probably be played in Winchester if arranged.

"Enchanted April" a romantic comedy by Kane Campbell, will be presented on April 8 in "The Little Theatre Beneath a Spire" at the First Congregational parish house. This is the last of the series of plays being given by the Dramatic Society for unemployment relief.

The excellent work done by the Dramatic Society in "Tons of Money" and "The Rivals" assures the public of a finished performance in "Enchanted April."

The cast is as follows:
Mrs. Lotty Wilkins—Esther S. Caldwell; Mrs. Rose Arbuthnot—Bertha R. Kelley; Lady Caroline Dester—Dorothy Brown Mrs. William Fisher—Dorothy M. Wells; Francesca—Eloise T. Graves; Clerk—Ruth Mallory Smith; Thomas Briggs—Prescott R. Taylor; Mellerish Wilkins—Donald R. Waugh; Ferdinand Arundel—Kenneth F. Caldwell; Domenico—Oscar W. Crowers.

The Winchester Unemployment Relief Committee has at present 224 men on the payroll. The committee reports that the funds are being disbursed more rapidly than the pledges are being paid, and in order to keep up with the work, more money is needed. The wage rate has been cut from $3.50 a day to $3 a day and becomes effective today. The committee is also distributing clothes daily to the needy, and so far more than 4700 units have been distributed.

Owing to the bad sleet storm early the other day, the school signal was sounded on the fire alarm system for all schools.

During the past week Building Commissioner Maurice F. Dinneen granted permits to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, for an addition to the present building at 58 Mt. Vernon St. and to the Bacon Felt Company to remove a storage building on Grove Place.

Preston S. Cotton of 41 Oxford St. reported to the police that his car had been stolen from in front of 18 Oxford St. Local officers and police of surrounding towns were notified but no trace of the car was found.

A coupe owned and operated by Wilmer S. Smith of Ridge St. was in collision with an Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway bus on Church St. near Pine St. yesterday morning. Both machines were slightly damaged.

Mrs. Joseph Trainor of Fulton street, Medford, has been entertaining her daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Hicks of New York, for the past few days.

ALL IN A WEEK

The musical comedy put on in the Town Hall this week under the direction of Miss Laura A. Hallisey of Arlington Heights provided excellent entertainment for many Arlingtonites. A wide variety of songs were sung by a chorus of 75 well trained singers. "The Penthouse Serenade" and "Bend Down Sister," two hits of the day, pleased the young members of the audience. For the older folks Miss Hallisey presented "Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet" sung by a mixed chorus of 16 boys and girls.

A picturesque military drill and a chorus of nine Red Cross nurses singing Miss Hallisey's version of "Who's Sorry Now?" brought the evening to a close.

Robert Manning of 25 Claremont avenue, Arlington Heights, was one of the principal actors in the three act comedy, "The Boomerang" which was put on by the Thayer Academy students in Frothingham hall, Braintree, recently. The event was the outstanding dramatic production of the academic year at Thayer and heads the list of extra-curricular activities. Robert brought the house down and was commended by the headmaster of the academy for his fine performance.

The wheels of industry will not begin to hum diligently until those who control them stop humming and hawing.

The question of whether or not Arlington should have a Peace Association was discussed yesterday afternoon in the Robbins Memorial Library. Mr. Lewis C. Strong of Boston, the principal speaker, informed his hearers that many such associations have been formed in many of the surrounding towns and are playing an active part in furthering the cause of world peace. This is a topic which should be considered seriously by every citizen. Due to the changes in government in some countries and the unrest in the Orient, the leaders of the world are eagerly searching for a stable peace plan that will make peace a reality in fact as well as in name. There are countless thousands who believe that peace can only be achieved by total international disarmament. The majority who have considered the question believe that in religion and education and not in disarmament lies the solution for permanent peace among the peoples and nations of the world.

Now that we have an Ely road in Arlington Heights all we need to be thoroughly up-to-date is a Curley square or park.

John Driscoll, well known Arlington athlete and winner of the Women's Club scholarship at Arlington High in 1929 was the guest of honor at the Boston University Basketball team banquet held at the Boston City Club recently. Dean Homer Albers of the Law School presided. John played basketball at Arlington High on the varsity squad and since his graduation he has been a member of the A. H. S. Alumni team. Last year he attended Boston College and this year he is attending B. U. Law School. He is a member of the B. U. squad which has won 14 games and lost four.

"Bread, Butter, Bacon and Beans" is said to be the Presidential slogan of Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma.

We question whether the candidate really is an expert on the last item—He's not a Bostonian.

Miss Phyllis Cowdrey, winner of the George Washington Essay Contest, sponsored by the Arlington Heights Study Club, read her prize winning essay before the members of that organization at their regular meeting in Hambury Hall.

Mrs. Bert S. Carrier was in charge of the meeting.

Joseph A. Dangelsh of 88 Lake street has been appointed a Public Administrator. He is an attorney and is a Deputy Clerk at the U. S. Federal Court.

The Arlington Bruins basketball team will take part in the semi-final basketball game to be held in the Charlestown Boys Club House Tuesday night.

Sight-Seeing Cowboy Goes Home

Tom Eaton, who has been visiting in this city for more than five months, left yesterday for his home in Billings, Montana. Just an ordinary news item that usually requires a couple of lines. But this item is of especial interest and an enlargement makes quite a story. Tom, a full-fledged, hard-riding, broncho-taming cowboy, has associated during the greater part of his life with the Indians and United States government scouts on the plains in and about the great Yellowstone Valley.

He has marvelled at the wonders of the great wild west but his vacation here provided many new novelties that he will not forget for years to come. Two days after his arrival, Red Welsh, whose pleasure it was to show Tom the sights, accompanied him and the writer to one of the Bruins Cubs' hockey games in the Boston Garden. It was the first hockey game the westerner had ever witnessed.

The structure and size of the Garden amazed him and he dryly remarked as he left that great sports arena, "You can fit the entire population of Billings inside this one building at the same time." Billings, incidentally, is the second largest city in the state of Montana.

But now for our part of the story. It was our privilege to have Tom as a chauffeur over the 20-mile course of the North Medford Club race a short while ago. For a fellow who had never maneuvered a big Buick eight through heavy traffic he did an exceptionally fine job and we were able to check the runners in their proper positions at the several marking points along the course.

The car, adorned with 1931 Montana registration plates and Medford Mercury plastered on the windshield, was the center of interest over the entire route. People wondered how we got by all the cops with the 1931 plates. It might be explained here that in the western state new plates are not issued until April first and the ones of the previous year are O. K. up until that time. Of course he was required to have a permit from registrar Ryan which he secured at the Commonwealth Pier. Tom termed it "that there fish wharf."

We started off directly behind the white official car but before Spot Pond had been circled we found ourselves trailing the rear runners. Tom began to boil and remarked, "No one's going to herd ride me off the road." He promptly jumped the course and at the first checking point we found ourselves ahead of the official car, which position was maintained with considerable difficulty until the finish of the race.

In that position Tom was required to center his gaze directly ahead while driving the machine and we had our feet doubled up on the back seat looking out the rear window. When it was all over we expressed our regrets that he was unable to see it all and asked his opinion of what he did see. He said he liked it but it all seemed too strange with a gang running around the streets in their underclothes.

We regret the departure of this 17-year old, 6 foot, 185-pound cowboy, for while we attempted to provide amusement for him during his stay here he certainly provided plenty for us. We hope he will honor us with another visit.

MYSTIC THEATRE

"Behind the Mask" with Jack Holt, Constance Cummings and Boris Karloff, and "Cheaters at Play" starring Thomas Meighan and Charlotte Greenwood, will make up the double bill that opens at the Mystic Theatre in Malden on Saturday. Told in a sensational manner, "Behind the Mask" relates the acts of a cruel and ruthless monster who stooped to inhuman means to stop anyone who interfered with his nefarious drug traffic. This mysterious figure is known as Mr. X, and his identity is not disclosed until the climax of the play, although he is seen masked at a number of points in the story. Jack Holt is cast as a Secret Service agent who finally runs down the criminal band. "Behind the Mask" is a sure enough shocker and not recommended for timid folks.

"Cheaters at Play" is an adaptation of a story by Louis Joseph Vance, with Thomas Meighan cast as Michael Lanyard, a retired master crook. Returning to America from Europe, Meighan discovers that Charlotte Greenwood has a fortune in jewels that she intends to try and sneak through the customs. These jewels mysteriously disappear and James Kilwood, a detective on board, is assigned to the case. Suspicion points to Meighan as the thief but he discovers that a youth is the guilty party. The story builds up to an unusual climax and those who have read any stories by Vance will agree that this author is a master of suspense. William Bakewell and Barbara Weeks provide the romance of the story.

GRANADA THEATRE

With Constance Bennett in "Lady With a Past" and George Arliss in "The Man Who Played God" as the attractions, the big Granada Theatre in Malden has another treat in store for screen addicts on the bill starting Saturday. Constance Bennett has three leading men, Ben Lyon, David Manners and Don Alvarado, in her new screen hit, "Lady With a Past," presents Miss Bennett as a shy girl who does not seem to click with the men. She accepts a plan whereby she is conducted about Paris by a gigolo and thus becomes a figure in Parisian night life. Her association with the gigolo makes people think she is a "Lady With a Past." The picture gives Miss Bennett the chance to do the things she does best and an opportunity to display the ultimate in chic gowns and wardrobe accessories. Feminine screen fans will like this picture. "The Man Who Played God" presents the distinguished Mr. Arliss as a musician of international fame, an essentially human being whose life and happiness revolves around his music and the pleasure he brings to countless thousands via the Heaven-sent gift he possesses. Fine plays strange tricks on him, giving and taking love, presenting the world for a plaything and then taking everything away. Arliss plays every step of the drama with nuances and shadings rarely seen on the screen. Mr. Arliss is supported by Betty Davis, Ivan Simpson, Louise Closser Hale and Violet Heming.

—Miss Mazie Kilroy of 23 Pleasant street, a senior at Lowell Normal school gave a talk in connection with the Athletic activities of the school. Her subject was "Management of Sports and Games."

Belgians Turn To Baseball After Successful Basketball Campaign

Tomorrow afternoon on Morrison park the Belgian American Union baseball team will have its first official workout of the season. All of the members of last year's team, which finished at the top of the second division in the first half of the City league and last in the first division in the second half, are expected to be in the lineup once more.

Wally Spencer, Dutch Oldenbrook and Harold Breck will again be the mainstays of the pitching staff and Frank Santosteo, who hurried for the Vernon Cubs of West Medford last season, may join the team before the official opening on May first. Santosteo is a free agent at present and it is quite certain that he will not wear the Vernons' uniform.

Freddie Patterson, George "Weenie" Wilford, Al Hollis, Art Goddiabols and Merrill Throver are the infielders who will work out. Throver led the league in home runs through the greater part of last season losing out the last month of the campaign when Hiker Mobilia, captain of the Civic Club, and Nick Catino of the Catino Club tied for that honor. Ollie Forward, Danny O'Hare, and Art O'Hara still look good for the outfield berths.

The Belgians have just concluded a grand season on the court, winning 15 of the 17 games played and losing one of the two contests in double overtime. The team chalked up ten straight victories before meeting defeat at the hands of the Revere All-Stars, 28-25, the teams being tied at the end of every period and the first overtime.

Two more victories were sandwiched in before the next defeat which found the Malden Cadets on top, 27-20. The team would up its season in a blaze of glory dropping the Immaculate Con-

Federal Aid Is Big Factor In Quality Roads

Washington, D. C., April 1.—Although the Federal government contributes only a small part of the annual cost of building important state highways, Federal Aid has been of inestimable value because of the Federal demand for high standards in state road building specifications and laws. This has saved millions of dollars to motorists through better spending of their contributions to road funds.

This declaration was made today by Frederic E. Everett, president of the American Association of State Highway Officials, who urges that Federal Aid be extended to states on the present scale for some time to come.

Mr. Everett said: "When Federal Aid began to function in 1917 very few states had well equipped highway departments; many states had inefficient highway departments and administrations; and some states had no highway departments at all. In order to obtain the Federal funds offered them many states had to make drastic changes in their road laws, administration and engineering personnel."

"To illustrate the vast changes that have been largely induced by Federal Aid, note that in 1917 only five states had laboratories for testing local roadbuilding materials. Today nearly every state has an efficient laboratory."

"The benefits of Federal Aid extend beyond the roads built by the state in cooperation with the national government. Through the insistence for high quality construction on Federal Aid roads, an example has been set which nearly every state has followed in building roads not on the Federal Aid system. Before the introduction of Federal Aid there was a decided tendency to obtain mileage at the sacrifice of quality. The states have adopted the Federal precedent that roads should be designed and built that will be adequate for the traffic and at the same time be marked with the lowest possible maintenance cost."

"Federal road contributions in 1930 amounted to only eight per cent of the road income of all the states. It is clear that the benefits brought about by Federal Aid extend far beyond this small contribution."

"Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, summarizes the values of Federal aid in these words: 'Federal road aid, by holding the expenditure of road users' taxes imposed by the states, to a co-ordinated system of highway aid, not only between the states, but for the nation as a whole, has had a profound effect in providing quickly a continuous system of roads which is earning a very large annual income for the public and in holding construction to the standards that are necessary for economical maintenance. Federal road aid has been a large factor in bringing constructive economy into our expenditures for improved highways.'"

—The many friends of Mrs. Joseph D. Robinson, 22 Farragut avenue, Medford and Mrs. Forrest O. Batchelder of 27 Carolina street, Medford, are saddened to learn of the death of their brother, John Nelson, of Somerville which occurred at his home on Sunday Mr. Nelson was mechanical superintendent for the Bethlehem Steel company at Fore River.

Homes of Beauty & Comfort

The Marion Delightful Dwelling That Will Appeal to Home Lover; Was Designed to Afford Comfort

The Marion is one of those delightful homes that appeal to all home lovers. It has six rooms, bath, breakfast nook and solarium. This array of rooms is conveniently arranged with reference to each other and designed to give the utmost in comfort and convenience.

Of particular interest to the home builder are the solarium and living room separated by a pair of French doors, and together giving spacious living quarters across the front of the house. The living room, which contains at one end a handsome fireplace, is 9 feet long. The solarium, with its five windows of the double-hung type is 9 feet 6 inches by 11 feet 6 inches in dimensions.

Exterior Lines
Seen from the street, the Marion presents a handsome appearance. The steep slopes of the roof with the colored composition shingles present a gay and artistic air. The large window openings with their groups of double-hung sash give a feeling of hospitality and welcome. The wall masses and the window openings are well balanced and the proportions are good.

"The front door opens onto a small concrete slab stoop set a step or two above the lawn. The small lights and broad strap hinges of wrought iron of the door are touches that appeal to the imagination. Overhead is an electric lantern of unusual design.

Well Insulated
The walls of the Marion are well insulated, thus assuring lower fuel bills during winter weather when the heating plant is operating. Over this is the siding of stained shingles laid 10 inches to the weather. These shingles extend down low over the foundation walls, and aid in giving to the house the appearance that the structure is set close to the ground. High foundation lines always present a lofty feeling and the home owner who homes to give to his home that intimate comfortable, homey feeling will do well to lower the foundation lines.

This is a home that has actually been constructed. The house is not an ideal dream on paper but through actual occupancy has proven itself to be entirely satisfactory.

Well Arranged Plans
The plans of the Marion may be studied with profit for they are good examples of a carefully thought out scheme to insure comfort.

On the lower floor are the living room with folding breakfast nook and the solarium.

Above are three charming sleeping chambers and the bath. Each of the sleeping rooms occupies a corner of the upper floor thus insuring cross ventilation and cooling breezes in summer.

Large Living Room
As one enters through the front door, a vestibule reveals itself. Off of this small room is a closet in which may be stored the overcoats, shoes, rubbers, umbrellas and other paraphernalia that is usually found in such a closet.

A plaster arch separates the vestibule from the living room. This room is spacious and is lighted by five windows, three across the front and two at the side, one on each side of the fireplace.

At the rear of the room is the staircase, leading to the floor above. The lower balusters of the staircase are revealed but the upper portion of the stairs is concealed by the side wall. The staircase is of the colonial type, the handrail and newel post being mahogany while the slender balusters are cream enameled.

The trim of the living room is cream. A cove moulding of this finish is located at the joint formed by the ceiling and the wall. There is no picture moulding as the walls do not lend themselves readily to this form of decoration.

The walls of the solarium are finished up similar to the living room as the sun room, when the French doors are opened, becomes a component part of the living section of the residence.

Wall Bed
A plaster arch separates the living room from the dining room which is situated immediately to the rear of the solarium. As presented in the plans on this page, an alcove or recess of some three feet depth will be noted at one side of the dining room.

When the Marion was constructed this alcove was finished off as a dining room practically square. The alcove in turn by this treatment became a closet in which was placed a folding wall bed. French doors allowed the bed to be swung down and opened in the solarium. The installation of the wall bed makes it possible for the owners of the Marion to entertain chance guests beyond the ordinary housing capacity of the dwelling. It gives an additional bed room to the house when it is needed.

Kitchen
The kitchen of the Marion will be marked for its built-in features. The walls are lined with pantry cases in which may be stored the dishes, food and cooking utensils. A fold away breakfast nook occupies one side of the kitchen and near it is another handy built-in contrivance, a folding ironing board.

The house was constructed with an icing door so that a refrigerator may be placed next to this door and the icing of the box taken care of from the outside. With such a convenience the icing may never tracks dirt and muddy water.

Full Basement
The basement has been fully excavated and is floored with concrete. In one corner is the furnace room, with a hot air heater. Near it is a hot water tank which furnishes the supply of hot water during the winter months. Facilities are at hand for installing a gas operated hot water heater if the family are to go to this extent, shoes, rubbers, umbrellas penne.

Annual sunflowers of the cucumber leaved type are fine animals. They will surprise you if you don't know them. Try a packet.

Sprinkle seed of hardy annuals in the garden where you want them.

Start snapdragon seed in a cool room. They grow best in cool quarters in their earliest stages. You can scatter seed outside now and get strong early plants.

Try some of the new early spinach with big leaves and less ambition to seed than older types.

Plant a row of mustard for greens.

Spend your spare moments getting stakes, frames and trellises ready.

Banana and acorn squash are easily grown at home and yield freely.

Try some vegetable marrows this year. Pick them small.

Get parsnips in the ground early. The longer the season the bigger the parsnip.

You can have petunias blooming in size by warm weather by starting seed now.

Get a box or pot of head lettuce seed started. Maybe you can raise prize lettuce heads if you try again.

Try a new vegetable this year. You can't improve the garden without a few experiments.

Start annuals in pots and boxes for early bloom. Getting them going now will give you bloom in late June.

Sow grass seed and sprinkle fertilizer in thin spots.

Spray currant bushes as soon as the leaves start unfolding with a nicotine spray. It is a great nursery for plant lice. You can check the garden crop by checking it on the currants.

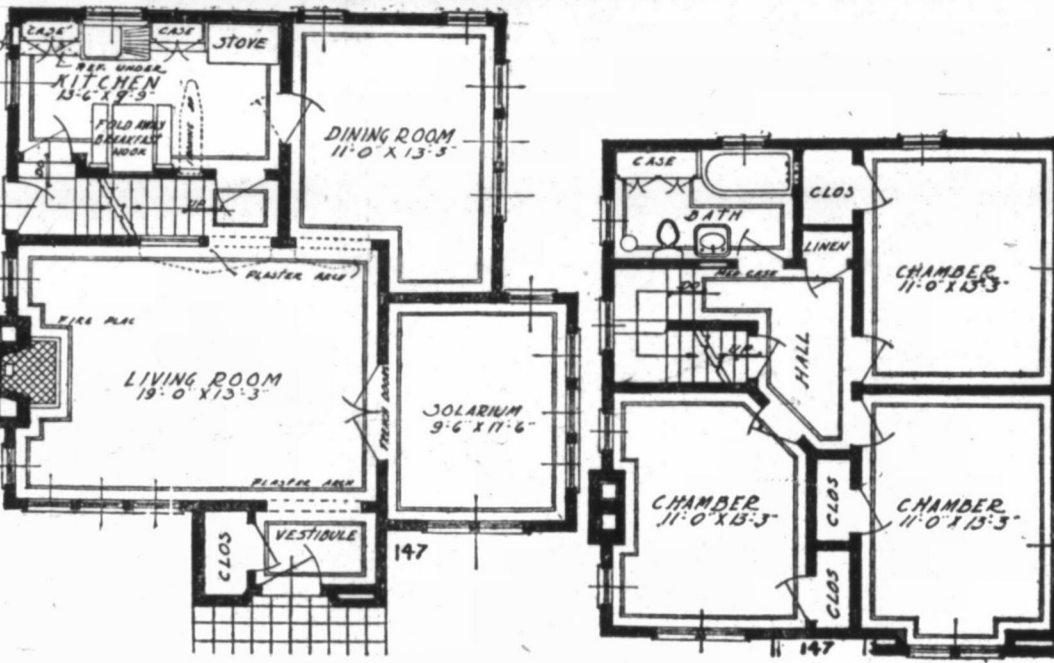

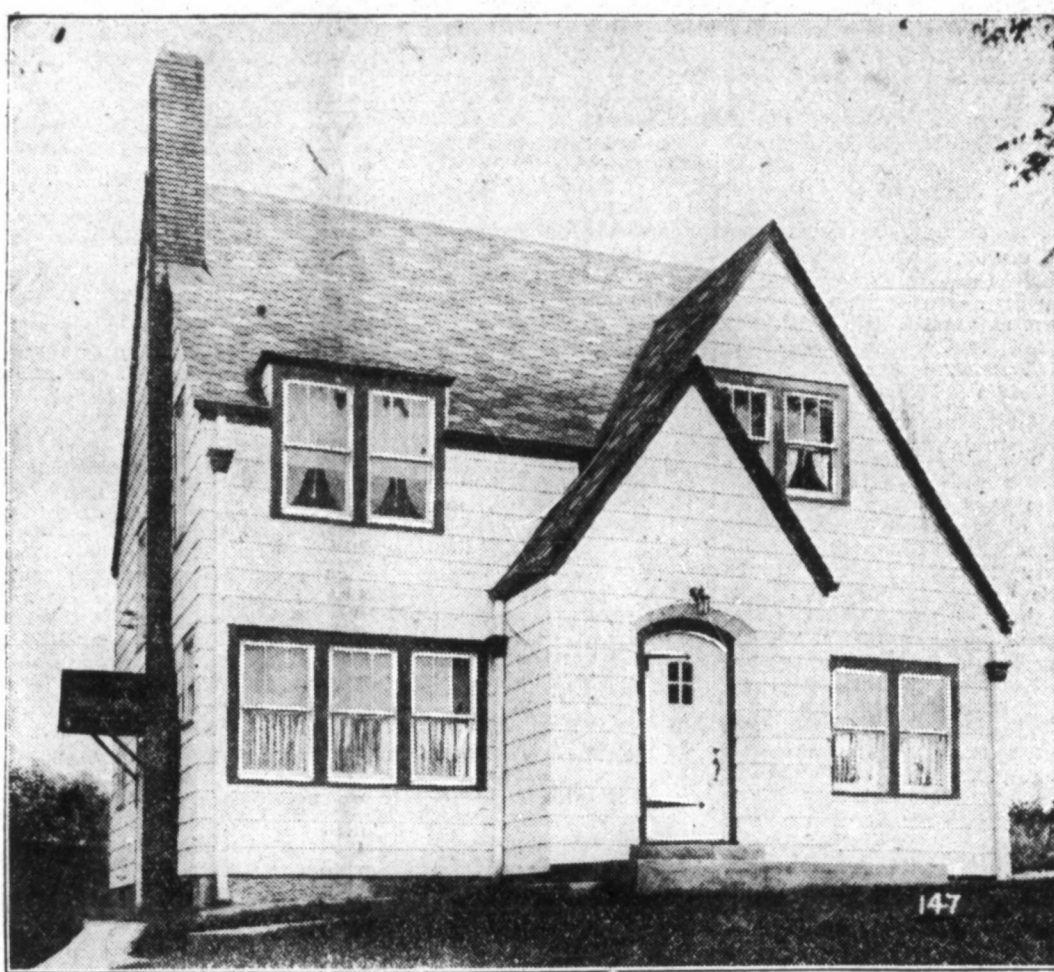

If you home cabbage, try the Savoy. It is the finest quality and most often seen in the market.

Pink and lavender mourning brides are favorites bouquet material. Order seed.

Draw a garden plan if you haven't already done so. The first start is an accurate measurement of the garden.

You need tape lines, stakes, plant labels for garden operations. Get them in and have them handy.

Study early, late, and midseason vegetables in your planting plans for succession.

A wheel hoe will make gardening easy.

Oil up and sharpen the lawn mower. Spring is in the offing.

Don't be afraid to dig deeply. The deeper the soil is turned the better plants will grow.

Plant a supply of annual vines to cover ugly fences and to shade sunny porches. All the morning glories are excellent and fast growers.

Plant a few hills of pole beans for extra heavy yield.

Plant night scented stock for fragrance in odd corners. It has no beauty, but is excellent for its spicy odor.

AIR MOTION KEEPS HOME COMFORTABLE IN ALL SEASONS

HOME air conditioners have now supplanted the heating systems which serve only to heat the home during the winter season. Home air-conditioning systems, points out the Holland Institute of Thermology of Holland, Michigan, not only warm the air but they perform many other functions that combine to create complete comfort within the walls of the home year round.

One of the remarkable features of the air-conditioning system is an air-circulator which may be termed the "key unit" to complete home comfort in all seasons. This electrically controlled unit keeps the home air in draftless though constant motion, drawing it through a filter and then forcing it through a series of water sprays. This filtering and washing process removes 98% of the dust and dirt that may be in the home air.

During winter it keeps the home air in draftless motion, thoroughly diffused, and at uniform temperature at all levels in all rooms. And it is this unit which makes it possible for the home-owner to enjoy complete comfort in his home during the hot, sultry weather of "dog days."

Homes become uncomfortable during summer due to the absence of air motion, which permits the formation of layers or pockets of overheated, stifling, stagnant air. Cool, clean, moving air is lacking and here is where today's home air-conditioning system brings comfort to the home-owner in summer.

WRESTLING DEBUT AT LEXINGTON PROMISES TO BE SPLENDID SUCCESS

Lexington will get its wrestling baptism on Friday night April 8 at Carey Memorial Hall, when the Stanley Hill Post of the American Legion stages an all-star mat program.

Albert A. Ross, past commander of the Post, and chairman of the committee in charge of the sale of tickets and the staging of the contests, reports that the greatest crowd that ever jammed its way into Memorial Hall will be on hand to witness the contests.

Even if the contests were to be staged only for sports sake, the bill as arranged by chairman Ross should fill Memorial Hall, but with the added inducement that the profits derived will go to the Post, is a further incentive for Lexingtonians and fans from neighboring towns and cities to put their shoulders to the wheel and make the event a huge success.

Through the efforts of Paul Bowser, a Lexingtonian who has one of the show stock farms of Massachusetts, and Mr. Ross, one of the best wrestling cards ever prepared will be staged for the friends of the Post.

Gus Sonnenberg, former world's heavyweight champion, has agreed to top the card in a finish match with Pat McKay of Memphis, Tenn. Both are Legionnaires. Both readily agreed to step into the ring in a two-out of three falls match under American Wrestling Association rules.

Medford Locals

—Mr. and Mrs. Philip Kendrick and Mrs. and Mrs. Henry Chapman of Hurlcroft avenue, Medford were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Twoomey of Beverly Farms.

—Mrs. Ethel Glennon and her son John and daughter Elizabeth, of 184 Park street, Medford; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Matheson and little daughter Joan of 63 Fellsway West; and Clara Laird of Governors avenue, Medford, spent the weekend at the home of William Francis in Middleton, Conn.

The Dartmouth "Dynamiter" was the fellow who rejuvenated wrestling when it was in the doldrums. In the four years he has been on the mat he has drawn through the gates more than $3,000,000. Undoubtedly he is the most colorful grappler in harness today, although he is being closely pressed by some of the newcomers. In McKay, he will tackle a mighty tough assignment and will be extended to the absolute limit to gain the decision.

In the semi-windup bout, none other than Al Morelli of Boston College, who has a legion of friends in Lexington and surrounding towns, will tackle another tough Irishman in the person of Pat Reilly of the University of Texas. Morelli is one of the up and coming stars of the newcomers to the professional mat sport. He recently defeated Dan Koloff, a fellow spurned by all of the top notches, just previous to that getting a victory over the colorful Count George Zaryoff and a sensational draw with Sonnenberg.

Right now Morelli stands out like a sore thumb in professional wrestling. The young Italian has developed the flying tackle to almost a par with Sonnenberg and in their recent match appeared to have all the better of the "Dynamiter" in their many exchanges of this kind of attack.

In the main preliminary, Charlie Strack, "Peck's baby boy" of wrestling and a fellow who is filling the shoes of the late Stanley Stasiak when it comes to roughness, will meet Lee Wyckoff. Recently they went to a sensational draw, with honors even, and it was a question which was the fresher after their grueling clash.

The opening bout will see "Big Boy Peterson" of Lexington taking holds with Joe Cook of Australia.

Tickets are on sale at Smith's Paper-store, at Ross' store, Depot Square or can be secured from members of the committee.

The fourth quarterly conference unanimously invited the pastor to return for another year. During the evening the pastor will announce his plans for the work in the coming year.

The annual conference begins Wednesday morning at 9:30, in Leominster, Mass. Rev. Clark will be the guest preacher at the Chestnut Street Methodist church, Gardner, his former parish.

New Club Formed

A new club, organized under the name of the Seven Aces, has started social activities in South Medford. A recent dance given by the club at the Capital Ballroom, Somerville, was a great success. Outings and other forms of outdoor recreation are planned for the coming summer months. The Seven Aces are: John Armstrong, president, Frank Armstrong, vice-president, Charles Murphy, secretary, Michael Cobucci, treasurer, John D. Julia, Alfred Manzi, and George Hutchings.

All that is needed for completion now, is the wiring for floor lights which will be attended to shortly. President Leroy Copeland, says that he intends to have a plentiful supply of seats for spectators, to witness both exhibition and competitive matches. Those who attend future matches on the club's new location, will have an excellent view from any angle, also there will be more space and less congestion.

Victory Banquet For Rollins Class At Thinity Methodist

Over 200 attended the turkey banquet and entertainment given by the Men's Class to the Rollins Class in the West Medford Trinity Church, Tuesday evening, in honor of the victory of the Rollins Class in the contest for membership and good fellowship that recently closed.

The affair was semi-formal, and created great enthusiasm since it was the first joint-event of this kind ever held by these two classes of Trinity church.

The tables, decorated with roses, lent an atmosphere of festivity. During the dinner prominent members of both classes were called upon to stand, cheers were given, and much applause resounded. Between courses the quartet of the Men's class sang. Their selections were as follows: "The Anvil Chorus," "Sleep Kentucky Babe," and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Grounds." After the banquet, the classes joined together in community singing, accompanied on the piano by Master Gilman of the Comrade's Class of Trinity Church.

The entertainment for the evening, a surprise, was the motion picture, "Brave Heart," starring Rod La Rocque. Bud Green of the Rollins Class rendered appropriate incidental music.

At the conclusion of the evening's entertainment the Rollins Class held a business meeting and the annual election of officers, with Frank Marshall presiding. The reports of the secretary, Edna MacDonald, and of the auditor, Vivian MacDonald were read and accepted. The report of the nominating committee was read by the chairman, Morton Hill, Ballois were distributed and votes cast. The result of the election was as follows: President, Frank Marshall, Jr., 174 Brattle street, Arlington, vice-president, Hilda Berry, 125 Sharon street, West Medford; Secretary, Virginia Lord, 6 Lawler road, West Medford; Treasurer, Mahlon Crouse, 2 Laurel street, West Medford. These officers will not become active until April 10.

The election of Frank Marshall to the presidency of the Rollins Class makes the sixth year he has held this office, showing remarkable service and devotion in the interest of the class. Mahlon Crouse, treasurer of the class, presented the president with a gift, a token of the admiration and esteem of the class. Frank Marshall responded to the gift with a pleasing and appropriate speech, after which a standing vote of thanks was given to the retiring vice-president, Letitia Ball, and the retiring secretary, Edna MacDonald for their excellent service.

A motion that the Rollins Class should hire a summer camp was next in order, made, and seconded. The committee appointed from the chair to investigate suitable locations is as follows: Harry Hoggard, Robert Ashton, Albert Marshall, Mahlon Crouse, Roy Stilliker, Wendell Mahany, Vivian MacDonald, Annie Griffith, Ruth Berry, Mildred Stevens, and Nelson Smart. The reports of the committee will be made in an open forum. A finance committee will be made in the near future.

A motion for adjournment was then made and seconded.

—Miss Mazie Kilroy of 23 Pleasant street, a senior at Lowell Normal school gave a talk in connection with the Athletic activities of the school. Her subject was "Management of Sports and Games."

REP. IRWIN SUCCEEDS IN SUBSTITUTING BILL AIDING COMPENSATION LAW

Representative John J. Irwin of Medford, succeeded in having House bill, No. 636, an amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Law, substituted for an adverse report of the committee on Labor and Industries in the House of Representatives, Tuesday.

The petition which was entered by Rep. Irwin provides for the payment of compensation to employees injured in industrial accidents during the entire period of total incapacity.

The bill is as follows: Section thirty-four of chapter one hundred and fifty-two of the General Laws, as amended by section seven of chapter three hundred and nine of the acts of nineteen hundred and twenty-seven, is hereby further amended by striking out all after the word "dollar" in the eighth line, so as to read as follows:—Section 34. While the incapacity for work resulting from the injury is total, the insurer shall pay the injured employee a weekly compensation equal to two thirds of his average weekly wages, but not more than eighteen dollars nor less than nine dollars a week, except that the weekly compensation of the injured employee shall be equal to his average weekly wages in case such wages are less than nine dollars. In a debate lasting over an hour, Mr. Irwin won a majority of his fellow representatives over to his proposed measure, the bill being substituted by a roll call vote of 114 to 83.

Rep. Irwin declared that the measure would take care of workmen permanently blinded or those who had suffered the loss of both arms or both legs as the result of an industrial accident. He also said that it would eliminate the limit of 500 weeks or total sum of $4500 and care for the injured during their lifetime.

The bill had the indorsement of the American Federation of Labor.

—William Boates of 19 Poole street, Medford, is confined to his home with pneumonia. He has been under the doctor's care for the past two weeks.
